

To go on this pilgrimage with members of the Savannah Presbytery meant that the conversations we initiated on the way would be continued and multiply. It was a gift to be the connectional church in another context, too, to hear how the body of Christ experienced the sites we visited.

Taylor